TEMPORARY TEACHER TRAINING

Good progress is being made with the renovation and alteration of the old classrooms in the former City Library buildings in the Public Library, which will be used as a temporary training college. At present the 32 trainees are engaging in various branches of their course, under the supervision of the two lecturers, who have already earned the respect of the students. The new training college is already in operation for the full year, and the course is expected to be of considerable advantage to the students.

ADDITIONS TO THE CONSERVATORY

It is proposed to erect four additional teaching rooms at the rear of the Eider Conservatory of Music and tutors have been engaged for the work. The staff and students have been crammed for some time, and it is necessary to provide some additional accommodation. The new building will consist of two stories.

DENTISTS IN CONFERENCE

The fourth Australian Dental Congress will be opened at the School of Mines, in Melbourne, on Monday, under the chairmanship of the Governor-General. The President of the Dental Association, Mr. W. G. Coombs (chairman of the Adelaide Hospital Board) presided at the opening session, and the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Sydney, Prof. E. J. Milne, was present to preside over the proceedings. The new building will consist of two stories.
