UNIVERSITY AND INDUSTRIAL.

A communication was recently received by the Chamber of Manufacturers from the University Graduates Association regarding the cooperation of manufacturers for the promotion of university graduates into practical life. The benefits of University training have been acknowledged, and the Chamber is considering ways to facilitate the process.

The communication included a list of positions available in local businesses, which are open to graduates of the University. The Chamber is working on developing a program to connect potential employers with qualified graduates.

The Chamber is encouraging all members to consider the benefits of employing University graduates and to support their career development.
