UNIVERSITY COMMEMORATION.

ADMISSION OF CANDIDATES AND GRADUATES.

ADDRESS BY PROFESSOR HOWCHIN.

There was a large and gay gathering at the Commemoration of the Admission of Candidates and Graduates, at the Queen's Hall on Wednesday afternoon. The occasion was particularly splendid, with the official presence of His Excellency, the Governor of New South Wales, and his Excellency the Governor-General, who is also the Chancellor of the University.

His Excellency the Governor-General expressed the hope that the occasion would be a happy one for all concerned.

The Chancellor's Speech.

The Chancellor, addressing the gathering, said:

"It is a great pleasure to welcome you today, as representatives of the University of New South Wales, to this special event in the life of our Institution. The University has grown from a small beginnings to become one of the leading universities in the world. Today, we celebrate the admission of new candidates and graduates, and I trust that this occasion will be a happy one for all concerned.

"The University has always been committed to excellence in education and research. It is our goal to provide a world-class education that will prepare our students for success in their chosen careers.

"As we welcome the new candidates and graduates, I encourage them to embrace the opportunities that our University offers. I encourage them to be open-minded, to think critically, and to always seek knowledge and truth.

"I also encourage them to be good citizens, to be kind and compassionate to others, and to always strive to make the world a better place.

"I wish you all the best in your academic pursuits, and I look forward to seeing you all continue to grow and achieve great things."
