A COLLEGE AT KANDY.

AN ADELAIDE GIRL IN CEYLON.

To be a lecturer in classics from age 15 as a rule promise an adventurous career, and Miss Valerie Reimann, M.A., lecturer in classics at Trinity College, Kandy (the old capital of Ceylon), has a pair of stalwart rifles which prove something quite otherwise. Miss Reimann is of Swiss extraction, born in Muri, Switzerland, where she was educated at the famous Bernese Gymnasium, and then went to England to study at Trinity Hall, Cambridge. After obtaining her degree, she went to Ceylon, where she has been for the past three years. During her stay in Ceylon, she has done much for the advancement of education, and has been a great friend to the natives. She is now back in Switzerland, where she is preparing for another tour of the Middle East.

The profits to defray initial expenses in New Zealand are made available through the Ethnological and Anthropological Research. That is why the fauna of these islands is great, and it is quite evident that they are rich in minerals and other valuable deposits. But these resources are not utilized, and the country is driven to imports of all kinds. The population of the islands is very small, and the country is economically backward. The government has taken steps to check the wasting of these resources, and has also taken measures to increase the production of minerals. The government has set up a new industry, in which it is expected that the country will become self-sufficient in the near future.

The European community is very small, and the country is economically backward. The government has taken steps to check the wasting of these resources, and has also taken measures to increase the production of minerals. The government has set up a new industry, in which it is expected that the country will become self-sufficient in the near future.

There is no reason to believe that any native community will be able to compare with the European community. The European community is very small, and the country is economically backward. The government has taken steps to check the wasting of these resources, and has also taken measures to increase the production of minerals. The government has set up a new industry, in which it is expected that the country will become self-sufficient in the near future.

The European community is very small, and the country is economically backward. The government has taken steps to check the wasting of these resources, and has also taken measures to increase the production of minerals. The government has set up a new industry, in which it is expected that the country will become self-sufficient in the near future.

Miss Reimann is a native of Switzerland, and has been educated at the famous Bernese Gymnasium. She is now back in Switzerland, where she is preparing for another tour of the Middle East.