ANGLICAN RESIDENTIAL COLLEGE.

At a meeting of the general committee of the Anglican Residential College, held on Friday evening, it was decided to alter the name of the college to "St. John's College," for the following reasons: That St. Mark's festival coincided with Ascend Day was one reason which caused the change. It was felt that it was not the name "Cure's" to be used for the college. The committee also decided that the name "St. John's" would be more in accordance with the college's object.
