CONSERVATORIUM CONCERT

Another of the students' concerts will be held on Monday next, June 11, in the Guildhall. The programme will be much more enjoyable than the last, and there will be no repetition of the two songs that produced such indifferent results at the last concert. The students have worked hard to get the concert off the ground, and they are confident that it will be a success. The concert will take place in the Guildhall, and admission will be by ticket only.

The programme will include:

1. Vespers
2. Ave Maria
3. Resurrexit
4. Ave Maria
5. Vesperae

Tickets can be purchased from the Conservatorium office. The price is 5 shillings each.

WOMEN AND THE ENGLISH UNIVERSITIES.

The campaign for funds to establish a residential college for women has been launched. The campaign aims to raise £10,000, which will be used to support the education of women in Oxford. The campaign has been led by Miss Sophia Jex-Blake, who is a strong advocate for women's education. The campaign has already received a large number of donations from supporters around the country.

THE POETRY OF VIRGIL.

LECTURE BY DR. J. W. MACKAIL.

Virgil was the subject of the second lecture in the series in Adelphi Theatre. Dr. J. W. Mackail, a renowned scholar of Latin literature, delivered the lecture. The lecture was well-received by the audience, who were enthusiastic and appreciative of Dr. Mackail's insights into Virgil's works.

ADVERTISER

Mr. John Watson Canavan, the Conveyancer, bought the property in Adelphi Theatre for £50,000. He has been a resident in Adelphi Theatre for over 35 years. He is well-known for his generosity and has donated money to various charities. His donation to the theatre will help to improve the facilities and provide a better experience for the audience.