THE JOSEPH FISHER LECTURE.

"MONEY, CREDIT, AND EXCHANGE."

The Victoria Hall was crowded on Wednesday, December 2, when the Joseph Fisher Lecture in commerce of the University of Melbourne was given. The meeting was well attended and the discussion was of a high order.

"MONEY, CREDIT, AND EXCHANGE."

The chairman of the meeting was Professor Mitchell, Dr. H. Heaton, and Mr. J. R. Forster, W. Horbery Steele, and R. J. M. Chees, and Coloni Hughes. Among those present were the University Board of Commercial Studies, the University of Melbourne and the Commonwealth Government.

The lecturer and all democratic Governments legislated regarding the note, and the Commonwealth Government took over the note, which was a great stabilization of
money.

The lecturer stated that by the Government, the note, or the gold was secured, it was a great stabilization of money. The gold was secured, it was a great stabilization of money. When the Government

The speaker said that all democratic Governments legislated regarding
the note, and the Commonwealth
Government took over the note,
which was a great stabilization of
money.

The lecturer stated that by the Government, the note, or the gold
was secured, it was a great stabiliza-
tion of money. The gold was
secured, it was a great stabilization
of money. When the Government

The speaker said that all democratic
Governments legislated regarding
the note, and the Commonwealth
Government took over the note,
which was a great stabilization of
money.

The lecturer stated that by the Government, the note, or the gold
was secured, it was a great stabiliza-
tion of money. The gold was
secured, it was a great stabilization
of money. When the Government

The speaker said that all democratic
Governments legislated regarding
the note, and the Commonwealth
Government took over the note,
which was a great stabilization of
money.

The lecturer stated that by the Government, the note, or the gold
was secured, it was a great stabiliza-
tion of money. The gold was
secured, it was a great stabilization
of money. When the Government

The speaker said that all democratic
Governments legislated regarding
the note, and the Commonwealth
Government took over the note,
which was a great stabilization of
money.