THE SCHOOL AND THE GIRL.

MODERN EDUCATION METHODS.

TIME was when our talk would have been called "an enquiry into the state of female education," and it would have begun with "it is not a matter of sponges and shoulder straps, amongst and "the use of the globe." How things have changed. Miss Winifred Berry tells us of a painting teaching for the best ways of teaching the "S" and the "E" and how to make them strong and in factory. The meagre achievements of women, where a little learning was deemed desirable, has gone. Today there may still be controversy over the value of technical education and general agreement that it is worth while doing. In this country one of the most important movements in education is the organization of women teaching and the thorough training of teachers under the Women's Educational Association, founded by a woman, which has given a picture of a school of girls' schools, and that these schools are preparing for the modern demands of the age. The Teachers' Training College and the Girls' School Association through their enlisting assistance of Miss Winifred Berry, have been practically unanimous in their interest and support in the movement.

"The committee's next work," Miss Berry said, "will be the formation of an Advisory Board to deal with the demands of these schools. A meeting has already been held with the Committee, all of whom are fully trained and some very able men are among the members. We have always kept our sympathies and our support with the movement, and we are fully aware of the difficulties and the importance of the work."}

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

PEACE INSTEAD OF WAR.

SUPPORT FROM RETURNED SOLDIERS.

The League of Nations, which has been in existence for years, is now in a position to make the world a better place. The League is a great movement, and it is to be hoped that it will go on to greater things. The question of war is a great problem, and it is to be hoped that the League of Nations will be able to play a part in it. The League of Nations is a great step forward in the cause of peace, and it is to be hoped that it will be successful.

The League of Nations was established in 1919, and it has been in existence ever since. The League has been in existence for many years, and it has been in existence for many years. The League is a great movement, and it is to be hoped that it will go on to greater things. The question of war is a great problem, and it is to be hoped that the League of Nations will be able to play a part in it. The League of Nations is a great step forward in the cause of peace, and it is to be hoped that it will be successful.