NEW HEALTH OFFICER.

Notable Medical Career.

Dr. E. Angas Johnson, who recently retired from his position as Chairman of the Adelaide City Council's committee on public health as a public-spirited citizen, has held for 14 years — was on Monday appointed health officer at a salary of £500 per annum.

Dr. Johnson was born in London in 1878, and was educated at the City of London School. He entered Trinity College, Cambridge, and after graduation proceeded to the University of Edinburgh, where he obtained the degree of M.B. in 1902. He then went to Germany, where he specialised in public health, and returned to England in 1905.

He has long been a medical officer of health for the City of London, and has been appointed to the new position at a salary of £500 per annum. He is a member of the Royal Medical Society, and has written several papers on public health questions.

Dr. Johnson is a man of great energy and enthusiasm, and has been very successful in his work. He is a member of the Adelaide City Council's committee on public health, and has proved himself a valuable member of the council.

The position of health officer is an important one, and the appointment of Dr. Johnson will be welcomed by all who are interested in the welfare of the community.

Dr. Johnson is a man of great energy and enthusiasm, and has been very successful in his work. He is a member of the Adelaide City Council's committee on public health, and has proved himself a valuable member of the council.

Dr. Johnson is a man of great energy and enthusiasm, and has been very successful in his work. He is a member of the Adelaide City Council's committee on public health, and has proved himself a valuable member of the council.