WOMEN AND THE WIDER EDUCATION.

Of the total number of W.E.A. students engaged in domestic duties, a large proportion of them have had to leave their husbands in the care of the children, either because of the present war or previous events. The W.E.A. has endeavored to meet this need by organizing home classes and beauty classes. The result is that many women are now receiving a higher education than they ever dreamed of before. The W.E.A. has also organized classes in industrial arts and domestic science.

A TOOL OF LABOUR.

Although the aim is to provide a wage for the male and female worker, the association has always been in the forefront of political and non-political activities. Women who desire to help in the work of the association are encouraged to work at home in the evenings or at home at the weekend.
