The Daily Herald

Adelaide: Thursday, December 13, 1883

KING PIN OF PROGRESS

DEMOCRATIC EDUCATION

The closing of the scholastic year brought forcibly to the annual commencement ceremony at the University and the machinery of the State Education Department schools and colleges draws attention once more to the question of education in general, and the results of its application in particular.

As many definitions of the term, education, it is, what it is, what it means, what is the worth of it, how it is to be attained, and the qualifications of the one who is to do the attaining. It is the duty of the teacher to be able to say to his pupil, "You are doing well.

Cytology and Cancer

If there is any truth in the theory that the carcinomatous cell is more or less like this is true for the cancerous growth in the body. It has been observed that the growth is composed of the same type of cells, and that the cells are the same in every part of the growth.

UNIVERSITY REGISTRAR RETIRES

A HIGHLY ESTEEMED OFFICER

Mr. C. R. Bridge vacates the office of Registrar of the University this year, on the expiration of his nominal advance period of four years, which has been in connection with the office, and is about to take up the duties of a private practitioner.

The Vice-Chancellor, Professor McElderry, spoke in the name of the faculty with whom they had been associated for the last few years, and expressed their regret at the departure of Mr. Bridge.

We are in his sixtieth year, and at the first commemoration he attended in 1883 the first graduation (five of us were) there attended. Only 24 degrees were projected. Today there are a hundred.

Catholicism and Socialism

As for the Catholic Church, it is said that it is not within the power of man to understand the mysteries of the Church.

Mr. Bridge was "overwhelmed by the colossal goodness" of the University, and his thanks for the cordial treatment he had received and relations incuring history of the institution.

We are in his sixtieth year, and at the first commemoration he attended in 1883 the first graduation (five of us were) there attended. Only 24 degrees were projected. Today there are a hundred.

A SPIRIT OF FRIOLITY

Adelaide was provided with a glimpse of light on Thursday afternoon, as a result of the interference with the lighting of the street lamps.

Perhaps it is natural that a new city should be in some respects more or less peculiar. No one can doubt the advantage of this spirit in a city where the streets are so narrow, and the houses so close together.

Mr. Bridge was "overwhelmed by the colossal goodness" of the University, and his thanks for the cordial treatment he had received and relations incuring history of the institution.

We are in his sixtieth year, and at the first commemoration he attended in 1883 the first graduation (five of us were) there attended. Only 24 degrees were projected. Today there are a hundred.

A SPIRIT OF FRIOLITY

Adelaide was provided with a glimpse of light on Thursday afternoon, as a result of the interference with the lighting of the street lamps.

Perhaps it is natural that a new city should be in some respects more or less peculiar. No one can doubt the advantage of this spirit in a city where the streets are so narrow, and the houses so close together.

Mr. Bridge was "overwhelmed by the colossal goodness" of the University, and his thanks for the cordial treatment he had received and relations incuring history of the institution.

We are in his sixtieth year, and at the first commemoration he attended in 1883 the first graduation (five of us were) there attended. Only 24 degrees were projected. Today there are a hundred.

A SPIRIT OF FRIOLITY

Adelaide was provided with a glimpse of light on Thursday afternoon, as a result of the interference with the lighting of the street lamps.

Perhaps it is natural that a new city should be in some respects more or less peculiar. No one can doubt the advantage of this spirit in a city where the streets are so narrow, and the houses so close together.

Mr. Bridge was "overwhelmed by the colossal goodness" of the University, and his thanks for the cordial treatment he had received and relations incuring history of the institution.

We are in his sixtieth year, and at the first commemoration he attended in 1883 the first graduation (five of us were) there attended. Only 24 degrees were projected. Today there are a hundred.

A SPIRIT OF FRIOLITY

Adelaide was provided with a glimpse of light on Thursday afternoon, as a result of the interference with the lighting of the street lamps.

Perhaps it is natural that a new city should be in some respects more or less peculiar. No one can doubt the advantage of this spirit in a city where the streets are so narrow, and the houses so close together.

Mr. Bridge was "overwhelmed by the colossal goodness" of the University, and his thanks for the cordial treatment he had received and relations incuring history of the institution.

We are in his sixtieth year, and at the first commemoration he attended in 1883 the first graduation (five of us were) there attended. Only 24 degrees were projected. Today there are a hundred.

A SPIRIT OF FRIOLITY

Adelaide was provided with a glimpse of light on Thursday afternoon, as a result of the interference with the lighting of the street lamps.

Perhaps it is natural that a new city should be in some respects more or less peculiar. No one can doubt the advantage of this spirit in a city where the streets are so narrow, and the houses so close together.

Mr. Bridge was "overwhelmed by the colossal goodness" of the University, and his thanks for the cordial treatment he had received and relations incuring history of the institution.

We are in his sixtieth year, and at the first commemoration he attended in 1883 the first graduation (five of us were) there attended. Only 24 degrees were projected. Today there are a hundred.

A SPIRIT OF FRIOLITY

Adelaide was provided with a glimpse of light on Thursday afternoon, as a result of the interference with the lighting of the street lamps.

Perhaps it is natural that a new city should be in some respects more or less peculiar. No one can doubt the advantage of this spirit in a city where the streets are so narrow, and the houses so close together.

Mr. Bridge was "overwhelmed by the colossal goodness" of the University, and his thanks for the cordial treatment he had received and relations incuring history of the institution.

We are in his sixtieth year, and at the first commemoration he attended in 1883 the first graduation (five of us were) there attended. Only 24 degrees were projected. Today there are a hundred.

A SPIRIT OF FRIOLITY

Adelaide was provided with a glimpse of light on Thursday afternoon, as a result of the interference with the lighting of the street lamps.

Perhaps it is natural that a new city should be in some respects more or less peculiar. No one can doubt the advantage of this spirit in a city where the streets are so narrow, and the houses so close together.

Mr. Bridge was "overwhelmed by the colossal goodness" of the University, and his thanks for the cordial treatment he had received and relations incuring history of the institution.

We are in his sixtieth year, and at the first commemoration he attended in 1883 the first graduation (five of us were) there attended. Only 24 degrees were projected. Today there are a hundred.