THE NEW STATE MINISTER.

HON. J. COWAN CHOOSEN, CABINET RECONSTITUTED.

The Hon. J. Cowan has been chosen as the new Minister in the State Government. He will take over the portfolios of Agriculture, Assistant Minister of Repatriation, and Minister of Planning. His appointment has necessitated certain reorganisations.

The predictions mentioned in "The Advertiser" on Monday regarding the probable choice of the Hon. J. Cowan as the new Minister in the South Australian Government, together with the new direction that might be taken necessary present survival, seem to confirm the view that the new Minister is well known and respected by the public. Any prediction of a reorganisation in the coming days, however, seems to be premature, as the new Minister is likely to be busy in his new position and any change is not likely to be made until the next Cabinet meeting.

been submitted, the Government will now have to decide on the matter in January, and it is likely that the candidates will have to be interviewed by a committee of experts. The Government has appointed a committee of experts to select the candidates for the position of State Minister, and it is likely that the candidates will have to be interviewed by a committee of experts.

COMMUNITY S.N.J.O.RG SCHOLARSHIP

AWARDED TO MISS RUTH NAYLOR.

The final selection of the candidates for the Community Scholarship engaged the attention of the Dr. Gillies Whittaker, the Secretary of the Australian Medical Council, on Thursday, and the appointment of the second candidate was made on the recommendation of Dr. Whittaker.

Miss Ruth Nayler, with Linda Gemmell, was approved for the position of State Minister.

The weather during the exercise of the scholarship was so unpleasant that the candidates for the position of State Minister were unable to arrive at the value of £50 and enter the holder to the position under any circumstances as any indication approved by the Government will be taken with the utmost consideration.

of the community. However, a number of chemists in Canada, the United States, and Japan, have taken a very different view of the matter. They believe that the production of insulin is a matter of vital importance for the health of the nation. As a result, they have been working hard for the goal of attaining the necessary knowledge for insulin production. Dr. T. Brailsford Robertson, a well-known chemist in the field, has been working hard to achieve this goal.

X Rate Cheaped

Insulin is the forte of Professor T. Brailsford Robertson, and he stated today that as a result of his efforts, the average cost of insulin for the average patient in Australia has been reduced to a third of what it was. However, the cost of insulin in the United States and Canada is still very high.

Dr. Whittaker's general report on the examination is as follows:

"After four candidates gave evidence on the main points of the examination, the standard of skill and performance was so high that there was a general agreement on the excellence of the work they had done. This has been the case in every examination we have held, and it is likely to become more so under the direction of the British Medical Association. The William McMullin, acting president, of the Medical Council of South Australia, has come to Australia to take part in these examinations, after which the Hon. G.ôn, of Melbourne, will preside.

On Saturday afternoon the following candidates were led by the examiners to take part in the examinations:"
