EDUCATION SYSTEM

"NEEDS URGENT ATTENTION"

Deputation to Minister

Mr. L. L. Hill (Minister of Education) considers that no question in South Australia needs more urgent attention than that of the education system. Schools in many instances are out of date and overcrowded, he says.

Requesting that the present overcrowded classrooms in the schoolyard should be replaced by stone buildings, and that the school columns and corridors which he described as "an eyesore," should be remodelled on up-to-date lines, a deputation of the school committee was waited upon Mr. L. L. Hill (Minister of Education) this morning. The Minister promised to submit the matter to Cabinet.

Mr. R. S. Whittard, M.P. (chairman of the committee) said that it was never intended to have the school remodelled on the site of the Tweedle school district of the Tweedle district. The school was used for student teachers in the morning, and the claim for the remodelling was not only in the interest of the children, but also for the betterment of the teachers of the school, who would be more worthy of the children's education.

The school was not considered safe, and the buildings were not up to the standard of modern schools. A few years ago the Director of Education had condemned the school, but during his absence abroad the school had not been removed from that list. Mr. Whittard submitted the request for the removal of the school from the list.

THE SCIENCE CONGRESS.

TO MEET IN ADELAIDE.

Adelaide will, about four months hence, receive a distinguished gathering of students and scholars from all parts of the world to attend the Australian Association for the Advancement of Science. On the opening day of the meeting (August 30), the retiring president of the University of Adelaide, Professor H. A. Baker, will deliver the presidential address in the Science Congress. Two prominent graduates of the South Australian School of Mines and Industries, Messrs. H. L. Row and C. C. Molony, have "crossed the bar." The former was appointed professor of geological engineering, and the latter was appointed professor of mechanical engineering, and the B.E. degree was conferred on them.
