ONCE MORE NORTHWARD BOUND

STEFANSSON "IN THE DESERT."

LADY STRADBROKE'S MISADVENTURE

No. II.—By Vilhjalmur Stefansson.

(COPYRIGHT)

3 JUL 1924

HORSESHOE BEND. Sunday.

The river journey to Seattle was resumed on Monday, the journey being across a vast hundred yards of bad road at Albera River. The second day out we found ourselves in a vast expanse of sand and we found it well worth the while of the season. The sand was so perfectly level and uniform that it was a continuous ocean of sand, stretching for miles and miles. The sun shone brightly and the heat was intense. The journey was a perfect trial of endurance, but we managed to keep up our spirits and enjoy the experience.

It was a great day, and we felt that we had made a great advance. The sand was so fine and so perfectly level that it was a continuous ocean of sand, stretching for miles and miles. The sun shone brightly and the heat was intense. The journey was a perfect trial of endurance, but we managed to keep up our spirits and enjoy the experience.

It was a great day, and we felt that we had made a great advance. The sand was so fine and so perfectly level that it was a continuous ocean of sand, stretching for miles and miles. The sun shone brightly and the heat was intense. The journey was a perfect trial of endurance, but we managed to keep up our spirits and enjoy the experience.