FATE OF AMUNDSEN

"NO CAUSE FOR ANXIETY"

Mr Douglas Mawson Hopeful

"There should be no cause for anxiety regarding the fate of Capt. Amundsen and his party. This view was expressed by Mr Douglas Mawson, D.Sc., F.R.S., Professor of Geology, University of Adelaide, at a meeting of the South Australian Institute of Science and Industry last night, where he said that scientific information and conclusions as to the fate of the expedition were still open and that it was premature to express any definite opinion on the subject."

SIR DOUGLAS MAWSON, D.Sc., F.R.S., Professor of Geology, University of Adelaide (Continued from page 12.)

Science and Industry.

Conference Recommendations.

That an investigation of the major mineral prospects of the centre of the continent should be undertaken, by a central department, under the supervision of the South Australian Institute of Science and Industry, and that the recommendations of the committee were adopted by the conference.

Other recommendations of the conference are that investigations should be undertaken with a view to the development of new heavy oils, with the view of increasing the amount of crude oil, and the output of heavy oils.

An investigation should be carried out by a committee of experts in the fields of agricultural and pastoral industries, with a view to the development of new agricultural and pastoral industries, and the promotion of the welfare of the people.
