PUBLIC HEALTH.

MOTHERS AND BABIES.

The Federal Royal Commission on Health resumed its sitings at the offices of the Commonwealth Department of Health yesterday morning. The Chairman was Dr. W. B. W. Turner, M.D., and the other members were Dr. James E. H. Macartney, M.D., Dr. R. A. Macartney, M.D., and Dr. C. H. C. Macartney, M.D.

PRIVATE LESSONS

"You ask for the meaning of the attack and the implications", said Professor Phillips. "Well, the crux of the whole affair was my willingness to give private tuition to one or two undergraduate students. The council objected to it, but there was nothing to which they could refer. It may be very beneficial, but there is always somebody ready to point out the possible use of such construction on it, and somebody else to say that it is impossible to carry on such a course. The possibility is that the council may be in the wrong and the council may be right. But I am sure that the council is right."

The President of the University, Dr. H. E. L. Smith, was also present at the meeting.

THE PROHIBITION OF DRUGS

Dr. Bower, who was one of the few to speak at the meeting, said that he welcomed the decision of the council. He was of the opinion that the use of certain drugs was injurious to health, and that it was right that they should be prohibited. The council's decision was a step in the right direction, he said, and he hoped that it would be followed by other steps. He believed that the council was acting wisely in the matter.

The President of the University, Dr. H. E. L. Smith, was also present at the meeting.

MEN AND THEIR MANNERS

All the differences between the old world and the new world are due to the fact that we have drifted apart. The old world was organized around a central core, and the new world around a peripheral one. The new world has a greater variety of climates and landscapes, and this has led to a greater diversity of lifestyle and customs. The old world has a more uniform climate and landscape, and this has led to a greater uniformity of lifestyle and customs.

CALM AND POLISHED

Mr. J. W. Woodroffe, the leader of the Liberal party in the House of Commons, was speaking at the opening of the new session. He said that the government had given the country a calm and polished speech, and that it had given the country a calm and polished government.

The President of the University, Dr. H. E. L. Smith, was also present at the meeting.

AND SOCIALISM

Mr. Malcolm MacDonald brings a new view of the world to the House of Commons. He is not a party politician, but a man of ideas. His view of the world is one of hope and optimism, and he is determined to make the world a better place.

The President of the University, Dr. H. E. L. Smith, was also present at the meeting.
