AT THE RESEARCH INSTITUTE—Dr. A. E. V. Richardson explaining the methods of experimenting with national grasses at the Agricultural Research Institute. The demonstration at Urbrae, Glen Osmond, last Saturday was attended by 200 University graduates.

COLLEGE FOR WOMEN

Gift of Sir Josiah Symon. Property on Prospect Terrace, North Adelaide, presented for use as a Women’s Residential College. It is proposed to erect a new building.

UNIVERSITY STUDIES.

For some time a sub-committee of the University Council, consisting of the Art Professor (Mr. J. B. Gardiner) and the Sessional Professor of Anatomy (Mr. E. L. T. Cook), has been collecting evidence regarding the quality of instruction in the University. The sub-committee has now completed its investigations and has submitted a report to the Council. The report is scheduled to be discussed at the next Council meeting.

Teacher of Singing

No teacher of singing is better known in South Australia than Mr. Frederick Bevan, who has held his present position on the staff of the Adelaide Conservatorium for more than a quarter of a century. Born in London, he began his musical career as a chorister in All Saints’ Church, and was boys’ choral in many engagements. He studied the organ with Mr. W. H. Price, one of the leading composers of the day, and later held several important positions in London, including that of organist at St. James’s Palace, where he is still organist. Mr. Bevan has been a member of the Adelaide Musical Society for many years, and is considered one of the leading performers in the city.

MR. FREDERICK BEVAN

Register 7.5.25.

NEWS 6-5.25.