A VITAL NEED.

Professor Davies on the Art of Painting.

The inaugural speech of the year, at which a large number of students and members of the staff were present, was held at the Art School today. The Director, Professor Harold Davies, speaking on "Art as a vital need," said: "Art is the outburst of the individual's soul, and its purpose is to express the ideas and feelings of the artist. Through art, the human spirit is communicated to others, and the unique qualities of each individual are revealed."

Sir Douglas Mawson, a noted explorer, who has served with the executive committee of the Australian National Research Council regarding the opening of the Adelie Land, was present.

Conservatorium Teacher

Mrs. Reginald Quennel is best known as a teacher of singing at the Conservatorium. She has been appointed to the Guild Hall, A.I.R.C.M., and went to London to study with the Conservatorium and the Guild and the English Opera.
