Professor F. Wood-John, Elder Professor of Anatomy at the Adelaide University, has received many congratulations on his recent appointment as the first F.R.S., which is regarded as the blue-ribbon of scientific achievement.  Professor Wood-John has made many researches in connection with the embryology of the frog.  Recently he was presented with the Adelaide Museum Medals for his models illustrating the development of the embryos of the frog.  He is the author of 18 numbers of his first book, "The Embryology of the Eastern Extentin Company on the Fly" published by the Sydney and the London press by the Sydney.  A few months ago he was published "Cassell's Encyclopaedia" and the journals of learned society.  In 1925 he was offered the position of Professor of Anatomy at the University of Adelaide, but refused to accept.  He has preferred to continue his observations on marsupials in South Australia.
