RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS

System of Selection

A Searching Enquiry

PERTH, Monday.

Dr. M. J. Renaud, a brilliant scholar and author, has just been selected for the Rhodes Scholarship Trust. He has just finished a tour of South Africa and Rhodesia, where he has been studying the conditions of the people. He is a member of the Western Australian Government and has been very active in its affairs. He has expressed his desire to be of service to the country, and has been selected for the Rhodes Scholarship.

This system of selection is based on the principle that the best students should be selected. It is not to be expected that all the students who apply for the scholarship will be selected. The selection is made by a committee of experts, who study the applications and select the most deserving candidates.

The news of Dr. Renaud's selection has been welcomed by all. He is a most deserving candidate, and it is to be hoped that he will make good use of the scholarship.

DEFENCE OF PROPERTY

(By Professor Coleman Phillipson)

Various tests have from time to time been suggested for estimating the quality of civilization. The great economists and their theories differ, however, as to the point of view adopted—scientists, economic, military, and political, and so on.

But having regard to modern conditions, civic and international relationships, we may safely say that the standard of a man's property is an excellent test—for the whole of the world.

The efficiency of this test becomes more manifest when we bear in mind that the fact that respect for property is considered a virtue is one of the most potent factors in the social order of the world.

Recent Violations

Recent attacks on property owners, such as the breaking in of shops, have alarmed the authorities. The efforts of property owners to protect their property have been met with resistance, and in some cases, violence.

Violence against property owners is not only a violation of the law, but it also undermines the social order. It is therefore important that the authorities should take steps to prevent such attacks.

We are all aware of the importance of property. It is the foundation of the social order, and the loss of property is a matter of great concern to all.

In conclusion, it is important that the authorities should take steps to prevent further attacks on property owners. It is the duty of every citizen to respect the property of others, and to prevent such attacks.

The authorities should take steps to protect property owners, and to prevent further attacks on property.
