The concert was given by the Elder Conservatorium String Quartet, which was well received.

The concert was well attended, and the performance was highly praised by the audience.

The quartet also played a selection of Mendelssohn and Mozart, which received much applause for the performance.

The concert was wintry, and the cold combined with the music to produce a mood of melancholy and reflection.

The programme was well-balanced, with a mixture of light and serious music, and the players demonstrated their skill and versatility.
