MUSIC TEACHERS CONFERENCE.

Two Addresses, Recital, and Concert.

The third day's proceedings in a music festival styled the American National Musician's Conference, was attended by the music teachers of the country and by a large number of interested persons. The programme included a Recital, and a Concert, and was arranged to give the teachers an opportunity to hear the best productions in the musical world, and also to have an opportunity to examine the work of other teachers.

A Profound Problem.

Continuing the line of thought presented in the recital, the question of the programme of music was the subject of a discussion at the Concert. The subject was discussed in two parts, the first being the presentation of a programme of music, and the second being the presentation of a programme of lectures. The discussion was characterized by a great deal of enthusiasm, and the teachers were unanimous in their opinion that the programme should be varied and interesting.

VIOLIN RECITAL.

Miss Edna B. Reynolds, a prominent musician of the day, made her appearance in the recital, and played a number of pieces, including some of her own compositions. The performance was marked by a great deal of grace and beauty, and the audience was charmed by the performer's talent.

FOLK SONGS.

The evening closed with a concert of folk songs, which was a great success. The audience was greatly moved by the beauty of the melodies, and the songs were sung with great enthusiasm. The programme was varied and interesting, and the audience was kept in a state of suspense throughout the concert.

TODAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

The programme for today's session is as follows: At 10:00 a.m., Dr. Harold Davis, vice-president of the American Musical Association, will deliver an address on the subject of 'The History of Music.' At 11:00 a.m., Dr. Charles Schmitt, professor of music at Columbia University, will give a lecture on 'The Theory of Counterpoint.' At 2:00 p.m., a concert of piano music will be given by Mrs. Alice Mitchell, one of the leading pianists of the day.
