MUSIC TEACHERS' CONFERENCE.

Two Interesting Sessions occupied the attention of those engaged in the music-teaching profession. On Friday afternoon and evening, there were two sessions held in the music room of the Grammar School, one on the subject of "The widow's music" and the other on "The music of the future." On Saturday morning, a meeting was held in the music room of the Grammar School, and was addressed by Dr. T. L. B., who spoke on the subject of "The music of the future." He said that the music of the future would be characterized by a return to simplicity and truth, and that the composer should be guided by the principles of the primitive and the pastoral. He also said that the music of the future would be characterized by a return to simplicity and truth, and that the composer should be guided by the principles of the primitive and the pastoral. He also said that the music of the future would be characterized by a return to simplicity and truth, and that the composer should be guided by the principles of the primitive and the pastoral. He also said that the music of the future would be characterized by a return to simplicity and truth, and that the composer should be guided by the principles of the primitive and the pastoral.