THE UNIVERSITY EXAMINATIONS.

The excitement at "result time" in connection with the University becomes more and more marked from year to year. Students and candidates from the various schools and Colleges are to be found flitting about in the neighbourhood of the halls of learning, all anxious to know their fate at the earliest possible moment. In many cases the failure to pass means the loss of a whole year and the very unpleasant experience of having to take up again the same studies which have already been pursued for twelve months. The preliminary examination for 1892 is, of course, now a thing of the distant past, having taken place in the first week of September. The papers of the examinations for the B.A., B.Sc., and LL.B. degrees, and also those for the ordinary public examinations have either been adjudicated upon already or else are in the examiners' hands. The ordinary senior and junior public examinations commenced last Monday, and it will no doubt be some few days before the lists are out. But the public examinations in the theory and practice of music have all been held. Virtually the twelve
