JUBILEE OF THE UNIVERSITY.

Preparations are being made for the celebration of the jubilee of the University of the University of Adelaide. It was established in 1874, and in 1895 its anniversary was celebrated in a manner which gave the right to great degree. It was not until 1919 that the jubilee work of the University began with the enrolment of eight students, and 12 attending students. At the opening of the first term, in March, the form in which the jubilee will be celebrated will be determined in detail. It is expected that the second short session will be extended to six weeks, the first will be devoted to the jubilee celebrations. Invitations have been sent to universities in Europe and America, and it is hoped some distinguished scholars will be present. A conference will be held during the second week of the jubilee period, with the object of bringing all the students under the University of Adelaide, and to form a society for the benefit of those who are not in Adelaide. The jubilee period will end on November 26, 1926.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE OF WORKERS' EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION.

The enrolments for city and country classes in connection with the Workers' Educational Association in 1925 exceeded 1,000, and this year a smaller percentage of the enrolments will be greatly exceeded. The general character of the classes has been such that one of the most difficult problems facing the Association will be to maintain the high standard of instruction offered. The classes are divided into three groups, based on the number of students. Each class is conducted by one of the teachers of the Association, and the teachers are provided with a budget of £10. The Association has received a grant of £100 from the State, and this sum will be used to assist the classes.

NEW AVOCATIONAL HOURS FOR WORKERS.

The opening of the classes is expected to be on October 14, and the enrolments will be closed on October 21. The classes will be held in the mornings, and will usually last for three hours. RICHARDSON IN AFRICA.

Dr. D. H. Richardson is in the Sudan, where he is carrying out a survey of the agricultural resources of the country.

Impressed by Advanced Methods.

How does our Agricultural Department compare with that in other countries? "Africa has a much better organization for the purpose of agriculture than any other country," Dr. Richardson said. "The work is being carried on in a systematic manner, and a great deal of progress is being made." This is an impressive statement, and it is one that is not without foundation. The Sudan has a long history of agricultural development, and it has made great strides in recent years. The work is being carried on in a systematic manner, and a great deal of progress is being made.

The American Library.

"The library is unique in the region in that it serves a wide range of communities," Dr. Richardson said. "It is a remarkable library, and it is doing a splendid work in the education of the people. It is a wonderful organization, and it is doing a splendid work in the education of the people."

The farmer benefited.

"The farming point, though, should not be overlooked," Dr. Richardson said. "Everything should be done to support the farmer, and this is the case in the Sudan. The farmer is getting a good return for his work, and he is being paid a fair price for his produce. He is getting a good return for his work, and he is being paid a fair price for his produce."

ARSENIC ON EXPORT APPLES.

The issue of drastic restrictions by the Commonwealth Government regarding the export of apples to South Africa has been welcomed by the farmers. The farmers have been facing a difficult time, and they are pleased to see that the restrictions are being lifted. The restrictions are being lifted.
