FOREIGNERS IN CHINA

By Dr. E. J. STUCKEY, B.S.

The rising tide of nationalism and the consequent growth of anti-foreign feeling in China is now having an increasing effect on all foreigners in China, and it is hard to see any day when this state of affairs will be definitely blazed out by any one of them.

Several missionaries have been attacked and three have been imprisoned in western Chins. Mr. Hay, the British Consul, has been driven out of his house and his papers have been seized. The Chinese authorities have given orders that all foreigners in China shall forthwith remove from the interior to the coast, and that all Chinese shall forthwith remove from the coast to the interior.

The Swing of the Pendulum.

The defeat of the Chinese in the Boxer War has been a severe shock to the foreign trade of the country, and the result has been a great depression in the foreign export business. The high prices of rice and other products have been largely responsible for this, but the depression has also been caused by the greatly increased demand for coal and other products from the interior.

The Chinese authorities have now decided to take steps to remedy the situation. They have ordered that all foreigners in China shall forthwith remove from the interior to the coast, and that all Chinese shall forthwith remove from the coast to the interior. This has been done in order to reduce the demand for coal and other products from the interior and to increase the demand for Chinese products from the coast.
