Dear little Josephine,

Please accept this little book of native drawings I hide it away from everybody until my books & drawings are published.

When you grow up I hope you will read all about my Jesse Haines who are dying out everywhere. The man who drew & painted these Pictures is dead, his people are also all dead. His home-ground is now a Town called Bremo. Where the pearlshell come from.

His name was Billingeji & his father principal Totem (Ga-ji) was the ga-jjalbun (porpoise). Their 80 Totems were principally food Totems. Totem is an American word, the Parasome name for Totem is Jol'nya.

My love to my little girl friend,

Daisy M. Bates
