RESULTS THIS WEEK

Intermediate Examinations

Results of the intermediate examinations which were conducted by Adelaide University will be available probably on Thursday. The examiners finished their part of the work last week, and the staff is now engaged in checking and tabulating the results. As more than 2,400 candidates entered for the examination this entails heavy work. Six subjects are required to obtain a pass, so at the lowest estimate more than 14,000 papers have been corrected.

REG. 25.1.27

The elevation of Professor W. Mitchell to the rank of a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George was the subject of a tribute by the Lord Mayor of Adelaide (Mr. Wallace Bruce) at the meeting of the City Council on Monday. He said that as occupant of the Chair of Philosophy and Vice-Chancellor of the University of Adelaide, Sir William had performed splendid service to the State. His cultured mind had done much to advance the intellectual life of South Australia, and members of the Council would join in congratulating him. In behalf of the Council he had taken the opportunity of telephoning Sir William Mitchell and congratulating him upon the honour conferred upon him by His Majesty the King. The action of the Lord Mayor was approved.

ADV. 25.1.27

The honor recently conferred on Sir William Mitchell by his Majesty the King was referred to by the Lord Mayor (Mr. Wallace Bruce) at a meeting of the Adelaide City Council on Monday afternoon. Mr. Bruce said the elevation of Professor Mitchell to the rank of a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George was universally acclaimed as a well deserved honor to one who had performed splendid service to the State as the occupant of the Chair of Philosophy and Vice-Chancellor of the University of Adelaide. Sir William had done much to advance the intellectual life of South Australia. It was unanimously resolved to convey the congratulations of the council to him.

Travellers Return

Dr. A. E. V. Richardson and Mrs. Richardson, who will be with you in a day or two, have returned from their world tour without daughter Yvonne. She has been placed at school at Eastbourne, England. Mrs. Richardson has been persuaded to take to shorter skirts, and was looking very smart the day I met her, wearing a soft satin frock, the color of cooked beetroot. Naturally her clearest impressions are those formed in Japan, Java, and China, for she has come from there so recently.

"Japan is the most peaceful and tranquil of all places," she said. "To realise the meaning of charm and courtesy one needs to go among the Japanese. The kindness and the generosity of the people are amazing. All the army officers at the British Embassy were astonished to hear that some people still have the idea that Japan has designs on Australia. The Japanese people as a whole are peaceful, deeply religious folk, and most friendly to all Britons."

Mrs. Richardson has a different story to tell of China.

"I was glad to get out of Shanghai," she said. "Some of my friends a bit more venturesome went farther afield, but came back with the retreating armies. The feeling everywhere was decidedly anti-British. At Hongkong I heard a Chinese of high social standing say, 'Oh wen, once all the British lion, now all the same British dog. We will live to see the moss grow in the streets of Hongkong—indicating that the Chinese idea is to drive the British out and uproot their industries.

Curfew Rang That Night

Mrs. Richardson was in Chicago when the authorities tried to revive a kind of Curfew Bell Act to drive all flappers off the streets by 9 o'clock. When the stage of making prosecutions arrived the police found that, misled with the short skirts, sleeveless frocks, and shingled heads, they had arrested not only flappers, but many mothers, and quite a number of grandmothers.

Adelaide Stanley (Mrs. Maurice Lubbock), who when her father was Governor of Victoria used to run about Stonnington in college uniform, is the mother of a wee daughter. How time flies! Lady Stanley was not keen for her elder daughter to marry so young—she was a 19-year-old bride, but it was a real love match, so romance had its way.

"There is a wonderful joy in being a grandmother," writes Lady Stanley to a Melbourne friend. I can't understand those people who say to me, 'Do you mind being a grandmother?'"

NEWS 27.1.27

At the Lyceum Club in London she had met at a university women's luncheon Dr. Dorothy Jordan Lloyd, who was awarded one of the two international fellowships offered by Dr. Georgina Sweet, of Melbourne.

Will Work in Adelaide

"She has chosen Adelaide as the city in which she will work," said Miss Bage, "and she will arrive here some time in April to be associated with Prof. Brailsford Robertson in his bio-chemistry work. You will like her tremendously, and she is one of the most charming women I have ever met."

NEWS 27.1.27

Prof. A. C. D. Rivett (chief executive officer of the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research) arrived in Adelaide from Melbourne by the express this morning. He will confer with officers of Adelaide University regarding the programme which the council intends to pursue, particularly in regard to the nutrition of animals and soil problems.
