

UNIVERSITY JUBILEE

Celebrations Begin Tomorrow

MANY DISTINGUISHED PROFESSORS INVITED

Beginning tomorrow with a reception by the Chancellor the jubilee celebrations of the University of Adelaide will continue until Wednesday night.

Many distinguished representatives of Universities in other parts of the world will be present.

The University of Adelaide has reached a haven called "Jubilee Year." It is interesting to note the wonderful development in its resources and the marvellous advance made in the realm of learning. This progress has gained for it a reputation second to none in the Commonwealth, and graduates from its precincts have attained a standard which because of its excellence is held in high respect in any country of the world.

To the munificence and public spirit of two men the Adelaide University owes its origin. The late Sir Walter Watson Hughes and Sir Thomas Elder each gave £20,000 for its establishment, and their example has been followed during the last 50 years by other worthy citizens, who have given sums toward the academic advancement of South Australia.

The University grants degrees in arts, science, law, medicine, dentistry, engineering, and music, and diplomas in commerce, music, education, economics, political (mathematics), is one of the most brilliant members of the staff, and one of the foremost mathematicians in the southern hemisphere. Prof. R. W. Chapman, M.A., F.C.E., M.I.E. (engineering), has been in office since 1907. Prof. Kerr Grant, M.Sc. (physics), was appointed in 1910.

Prof. Sir Douglas Mawson, O.B.E., F.R.S., D.Sc., F.R.S. (geology and mineralogy), gained much valuable experience as an intrepid member of Sir Ernest Shackleton's Antarctic exploration party. Prof. Frederick Wood-Jones, M.B., B.S., M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., D.Sc., F.R.S. (anatomy), has achieved fame for his research work in anthropology and comparative anatomy, and is the author of several enlightening works. Prof. T. Brailsford Robertson, Ph.D., D.Sc. (physiology and bio-chemistry) controls operations at Darling Building, and his research work is of outstanding value.

Prof. J. R. Cleland, M.D., is the George

Chancellor will receive the delegates and give an address.

Speeches will also be delivered by visiting delegates and degrees of their respective ranks will be conferred. In the evening there will be a concert to delegates and visitors by members of the staff of the Elder Conservatorium.

On Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, the Hon. John Gunn (Premier) will officially open the new physics and engineering building. In the afternoon there will be students' sports and motor excursions, and in the evening a dinner at Adelaide Town Hall given by the University Council to delegates and staff.

Delegates will on Wednesday morning inspect the Waite Agricultural Research Institute at Urrbrae; in the afternoon there will be students' sports and motor excursions, and in the evening a gathering in Elder-Hall, arranged by the Women Students' Union.

FUND FOR UNIVERSITY

Generous Benefactors

In the early days of the University, Parliament granted endowments for its maintenance, beginning in 1874 with an annual sum of 5 per cent. of the capital funds possessed by the institution, but not to exceed in any one year £10,000.

In 1911 an additional grant of £4,000 was made, and in 1920, to meet the urgent needs of the University, a further grant of £20,000 a year was sanctioned, and Parliament undertook to erect a building for the departments of physics and engineering.

The city site of the University is five acres in extent. In 1914 additional acreage was made available by the munificence of the late Mr. Peter Waite. With a view to advancing the cause of education in

Increase of Students

When academical work was begun at the University in 1876 there were eight matriculated students and 52 non-graduating students attending lectures.

The number of graduates admitted by examination since that year is 1,579, and those admitted to the same rank from other universities number 380. Last year the number of undergraduates was 732, non-graduating students 676, and post-graduate students 78.

His Excellency the Governor is official visitor to the University; Sir George Murray, K.C.M.G., B.A., LL.M., is chancellor, and Prof. William Mitchell, M.A., D.Sc., vice-chancellor.

Learned Professors

The staff of the University comprises 19 professors, more than 60 lecturers, and there are 22 teachers in the Elder Conservatorium of Music. Of its professors the University and the community as a whole are justly proud.

Prof. H. Darnley Naylor, M.A. (classics, comparative philology and literature) has published several classical works, and is well known as a fluent and polished speaker. Prof. J. McCallum Stewart, D.Phil. (philosophy), Prof. W. K. Hancock, B.A. (modern history) was the first Rhodes scholar appointed from the whole Commonwealth of Australia.

Prof. Sir Archibald Strong, M.A., D.Litt. (English language and literature) has been and is a frequent contributor in prose and verse to the literature of Australia, and as a lecturer he is lucid and learned. Prof. L. T. Wilton, M.A., D.Sc.

Richard Marks professor in pathology. Prof. T. Harvey Johnston, M.A., D.Sc. (zoology) is prominent for his efforts toward the eradication of the prickly pear, and is a member of the commission appointed for the purpose. Prof. E. H. Rennie, M.A., D.Sc. (chemistry) was appointed to his position in 1884. He has done valuable administrative work for the University, and is president of the Association for the Advancement of Science, which will meet in Perth this month.

Prof. A. E. V. Richardson, M.A., D.Sc., is Waite professor of agriculture and director of Waite Research Institute, and he receives great assistance from Prof. J. A. Prescott, M.Sc., who is busy in the department of agricultural chemistry in connection with the soil survey of the State. Prof. T. G. B. Osborn, D.Sc. (botany), has frequently traversed the arid areas of the Commonwealth with regard to the rejuvenation of native flora.

Prof. N. W. Jolly, B.A., B.Sc. (forestry) was the first South Australian Rhodes scholar. Prof. A. L. Campbell (law) has appointed to the position this year. Prof. E. Harold Davies, Mus. Doc., is director of the Elder Conservatorium of music, and under his guidance the musical life of the State has developed amazingly.

The programme of the Jubilee celebrations will begin tomorrow night with a conversazione at the University. Guests will be received by Sir George Murray, K.C.M.G., B.A., LL.M. (Chancellor), and the programme will comprise inspection of laboratories, lecture demonstrations, dramatic performances, and cinema films.

On Sunday there will be a commemorative service at St. Peter's Cathedral in the afternoon at 3.30 o'clock. A special congregation will assemble at the Elder Hall on Monday afternoon when the Chancelor will receive the delegates and give an address.

Speeches will also be delivered by visiting delegates and degrees of their respective ranks will be conferred. In the evening there will be a concert to delegates and visitors by members of the staff of the Elder Conservatorium.
