
Udny Yule,

I am enclosing herewith the triple-barrelled paper on the logribution. As you may judge, most of the credit should go to Rams.

The form is likely to be useful in a great many miscellaneous nications, not because it fits well in all cases, neither wordfancies nor generic sizes in most groups, but because it fits well in some, and therefore affords a standard of comparison others, a standard deviation from which has at least nothing to with mere "richness in genera" or size of vocabulary.

Table IO was a tending function to tabulate.

Yours sincerely,
