23rd November 1933.

H.J.B. Wollaston, Esq.,
Fisheries Laboratory,
Lowestoft.

My dear Buchanan Wollaston,

... No, I was not in the least offended, but as you suspect tremendously busy. I answer all the correspondence I can offhand, but a great deal, and this necessarily includes your long letters, has to be put aside to think about. This has worked well until this year, when, I am sorry to say, some of the letters from you and others so set aside, have never got answered at all. I will write again, if on looking through your offprints I think I can say anything useful.

You may be sure that I think it exceedingly valuable that a man like yourself capable of approaching new, and difficult problems with originality, and inclined to think for yourself, should be tackling the many puzzles which arise in Fisheries investigations.

Yours sincerely,