From MAJOR L. DARWIN, Crippa's Corner, Forest Row, Sussex.

Nature, July 1-33 p 37 — "...the larger bird... lay fewer eggs... the larger chick required more parental attention... The breeding factor does not lie in the capacity of the bird to lay eggs — for reasons given. That fits in with my pet little theory. No answer.

LD

1/7/33