Dear Fisher

I left by the early train today along with Hadow & Doll and did not get the chance of enquiring after you. I hope you were quite well again this morning.

Your criticisms, particularly on the point that they had neglected to get information about inhalation in the doctor's enquiry, were telling.

It is an interesting subject - partly because it cannot be very easily attacked directly.

I enjoyed meeting the young man, as well as my three colleagues on the Panel.

Yours sincerely

Albert C. Egerton
