Dear R. A. F.,

Many thanks for your letter. I have had Bailey's letter from Irwin, and posted it on to George Barnard. I have friends there both reluctant to support Gaddum & Trewan, on the ground that they are not professional statisticians - perhaps there may be an opportunity to discuss it with George on Monday, at Guinness's.

David Finney will not be there, so may I worry you to resume the rôle of President for the occasion? I understand from Miss Cunliffe that we probably have lunch with Sir Hugh Beaver, who appears to be Chairman not only of Guinness's, but also of the Advisory Council of the D.P.I.R. and the British Institute of Management.

Yours sincerely,
Edgar Allan
