Dear Dr. Korenchevsky,

It is really impossible to state an absolute minimum, seeing that if an effect is large enough significant results might be obtained with very few patients. The probability, however, of obtaining a negligible for one's trouble increases greatly as the number of subjects is cut down. I had supposed that not less than 50 patients would be available in each group, say 200 in all.

Yours sincerely,