April 17, 1939

Dear Dr Russ,

I have now heard from Hill about your paper on Evidence of resistance to tumor growth. He said, "If you do communicate the paper it would obviously have to be submitted to Gye or Kenhaway or both as referees", and suggests also that you might prefer to submit the paper either to the British Journal of Experimental Pathology, or the Journal of Pathology and Bacteriology, where it might more readily come under the notice of workers in experimental medicine.

You have, perhaps, considered this alternative, but I feel I ought to put it to you before taking further action. If you would definitely prefer that the Society should have the first offer, I will return your paper to Hill as communicated by me.

Yours sincerely,