Dear Todd,

Thanks for your letter about the German work on genotypic differentiation between smoking classes. It is, I think, an idea which would occur to anyone with a genetic background. It is, unfortunately, almost excluded in this country by the educational requirements of medicine. It is interesting to hear that the book has in fact been sufficiently influential to have checked the possibility of a medically organized cancer scare. This should keep some of them out of asylums!

Sincerely yours,