

2nd June, 1955.

My dear Geof.,

I like your paper on remanent magnetism, and was very glad that Irving has instigated an interest on your part in this very attractive subject.

I thought it would be best to try the Geophysical Supplement of the Monthly Notices of the Royal Astronomical Society, and have sent the copy to the Assistant Secretary, I hope with your approval. If they do not like it, I told them I should submit it to the Research Section of the Royal Statistical Society.

B. Griffing, who has been working in this department for most of two years, went off yesterday for Canberra, where he will be working with Frankel.

Sincerely yours,
