

3 December 1931.

N. Wyld, Esq.,
The Industrial Institute,
162 Belgrave Road,
London, S.W. 1.

Dear Sir:

I have your letter of 1 December. I am glad to hear that the Royal Statistical Society is publishing your work.

I am quite satisfied to let your quotation from my letter stand as it is, though I should have preferred, as you suggest, to have given an opinion on the new research. However, this is now quite impossible, as I understand that I must not attempt any serious work for the next three weeks.

Yours sincerely,