Perspectives of primary school children of Filipino immigrants on their home and school experiences in South Australia

Marizon Guillermo Yu
BS Economics; MA Education

Thesis submitted in fulfilment of the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy
School of Education, Faculty of the Professions
The University of Adelaide
February 2014
Table of contents

Table of contents ...........................................................................................................................................i

List of tables and figures ...............................................................................................................................vi

Tables .............................................................................................................................................................vi

Figures ...........................................................................................................................................................vi

Abstract ..........................................................................................................................................................vii

Declaration ......................................................................................................................................................viii

Acknowledgements .......................................................................................................................................ix

Chapter 1  Introduction ................................................................................................................................. 1

1.1. The research questions and aims ........................................................................................................ 2

1.2. Theoretical framework and methodology: overview and justification ........................................... 6

1.3. Self-reflection ....................................................................................................................................... 8

1.4. Significance and contribution of the study ......................................................................................... 11

1.5. Limitations ......................................................................................................................................... 12

1.6. Organisation of the thesis .................................................................................................................... 13

Chapter 2  Review of literature and related studies .................................................................................... 14

2.1. Introduction ......................................................................................................................................... 14

2.2. The ethos of the Filipino .................................................................................................................... 15

2.2.1. Values on family ............................................................................................................................ 19

2.2.1.1. Children in Filipino families ................................................................................................... 21

2.2.2. Values on relationships with others ............................................................................................. 25

2.2.3. Values on religion .......................................................................................................................... 27

2.2.4. Values on schooling ....................................................................................................................... 28

2.2.4.1. The Philippine Basic Education Curriculum ......................................................................... 31
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter</th>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2.3</td>
<td>2.3.1</td>
<td>Filipino migration to Australia: an overview</td>
<td>36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Philippine-born population of Australia and South Australia</td>
<td>37</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.4</td>
<td>2.4.1</td>
<td>Culturally diverse Australia</td>
<td>45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Australian values in schools</td>
<td>49</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>2.4.2</td>
<td>The Australian Curriculum</td>
<td>51</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>2.4.3</td>
<td>Children of Filipino immigrants</td>
<td>53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>2.5</td>
<td>Conclusion</td>
<td>57</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chapter 3</td>
<td>3.1</td>
<td>Theoretical framework</td>
<td>59</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3.2</td>
<td>Introduction</td>
<td>59</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3.3</td>
<td>Rationale for the framework</td>
<td>59</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3.3.1</td>
<td>Symbolic interactionism: pragmatist contribution and basic principles</td>
<td>60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3.3.1.1</td>
<td>The self and others</td>
<td>71</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3.3.1.2</td>
<td>Identity and roles</td>
<td>75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3.3.1.3</td>
<td>Socialisation of children</td>
<td>78</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3.3.1.3.1</td>
<td>Family as primary socialisation</td>
<td>79</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3.3.1.3.2</td>
<td>Peer socialisation</td>
<td>82</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3.3.1.3.3</td>
<td>Media socialisation of children</td>
<td>83</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3.3.1.3.4</td>
<td>School socialisation of immigrant children</td>
<td>87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3.3.1.4</td>
<td>Interactionist view of coping</td>
<td>95</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3.3.2</td>
<td>Some criticisms of the framework</td>
<td>96</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3.4</td>
<td>Researching Filipino immigrant children’s home and school experiences</td>
<td>98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3.5</td>
<td>Conclusion</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chapter 4</td>
<td>4.1</td>
<td>Methodology</td>
<td>103</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>4.1.1</td>
<td>Introduction</td>
<td>103</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Chapter 6  Perspectives on school socialisation ................................................................. 183

6.1. Introduction .................................................................................................................. 183

6.2. Schooling in the Philippines ....................................................................................... 184

6.2.1. Perspectives on the physical characteristics of the school ................................. 185

6.2.2. Perspectives on school work and related activities ............................................. 187

6.2.3. Perspectives on teachers in the Philippines ......................................................... 190

6.2.4. Perspectives on their classmates in the Philippines ........................................... 191

6.3. Experiences in South Australian schools ................................................................. 193

6.3.1. Daily preparation for school and related routines .............................................. 194

6.3.2. Perspectives on the school’s physical environment and resources .................... 197

6.3.3. Perspectives on school work and other related activities ................................. 199

6.3.3.1. Learning the English language ........................................................................ 199

6.3.3.2. Subject preferences and their pedagogical features ........................................ 200

6.3.3.3. Involvement in co-curricular activities .......................................................... 206

6.3.4. Perspectives on teachers ....................................................................................... 208

6.3.4.1. Dispositional ..................................................................................................... 208

6.3.4.2. Pedagogical ..................................................................................................... 210

6.3.4.3. Disciplinary ..................................................................................................... 211

6.3.5. Perspectives on peers at school .......................................................................... 215

6.3.5.1. Characteristics of friends ................................................................................ 216

6.3.5.2. Activities with friends .................................................................................... 220

6.4. Conclusion .................................................................................................................. 224

Chapter 7  Perspectives on media socialisation ................................................................. 227

7.1. Introduction ................................................................................................................ 227

7.2. Perspectives on television viewing ............................................................................ 229
List of tables and figures

Tables

Table 2.1 Philippine-born population in Australia ........................................ 38
Table 2.2 Top 10 nationalities conferred with Australian citizenship, 2011–2012 ........ 43
Table 2.3 Top 10 countries of origin of children in immigrant families in Australia ........ 53
Table 4.1 Selected characteristics of the participants ....................................... 119
Table 5.1 Selected family characteristics ......................................................... 149
Table 5.2 Languages spoken at home .............................................................. 161
Table 6.1 Favourite subjects of the participants ............................................... 202
Table 7.1 Ownership of media-related technology .......................................... 228

Figures

Figure 3.1 Socialisation contexts of children of Filipino immigrants .................... 99
Figure 4.1 Gaining access to participants through gatekeepers .......................... 120
Figure 4.2 The interview process .................................................................. 122
Figure 4.3 The research process .................................................................. 132
Figure 4.4 The study on Filipino children’s perspectives ................................. 135
Figure 5.1 Participants and their siblings ......................................................... 156
Abstract

This thesis contributes to the understanding of socialisation of children by examining the perspectives of primary school children of Filipino immigrants in South Australia on their experiences at home, in school, with peers, and with media. Philippine-born children, aged 8-12, were interviewed on how they learnt the skills, attitudes, and values that enabled them to cope with their new environment.

Research on the socialisation experiences of primary school children of immigrants is scarce. What there is focuses on economic status and academic success. Little is known about children’s perspectives and adaptive strategies following immigration. This thesis fills a research gap in the complexity of children’s experiences by investigating the perspectives of thirty primary school children of Filipino immigrants living in South Australia.

A qualitative methodological approach grounded the children’s perspectives in symbolic interactionism (SI). Recognising the development of children’s selves through socialisation, SI sees children as active participants in human group life. Through interaction, children define their situations, take perspectives, and adjust their behaviour in line with that of others.

The study concludes by generating substantive propositions regarding the socialisation experiences of children of Filipino immigrants. These support formal theoretical implications on selves, socialisation, perspective-taking, and coping. The study recommends further research into the experiences of the same children when they commence high school. A similarly designed study could be utilised for Australian-born primary school children of Filipino immigrants.
Declaration

I certify that this work contains no material which has been accepted for the award of any other degree or diploma in my name, in any university or other tertiary institution and, to the best of my knowledge and belief, contains no material previously published or written by another person, except where due reference has been made in the text. In addition, I certify that no part of this work will, in the future, be used in a submission in my name, for any other degree or diploma in any university or other tertiary institution without the prior approval of the University of Adelaide and where applicable, any partner institution responsible for the joint-award of this degree.

I give consent to this copy of my thesis when deposited in the University Library, being made available for loan and photocopying, subject to the provisions of the Copyright Act 1968.

I also give permission for the digital version of my thesis to be made available on the web, via the University's digital research repository, the Library Search and also through web search engines, unless permission has been granted by the University to restrict access for a period of time.

Marizon Guillermo Yu
Acknowledgements

It gives me great pleasure to acknowledge the following people, without whom, this PhD journey would not have been realised.

I am forever indebted to my supervisors, Dr Anthony Potts and Dr Nina Maadad, who provided excellent support, guidance, feedback, and encouragement throughout the process.

I am grateful to the staff members of the School of Education under the leadership of Dr Tanya Aspland (former Head of School), Dr Jan Keightly (current Head of School), Dr Igusti Darmawan and Dr Andrew Hope (Postgraduate Coordinators) for their administrative support.

I am truly thankful to my fellow Filipinos in Adelaide, Dr Francis Ben, Ms Miriam Cocking, Dr Rey Juanta, and Ms Mary Jean Hallam for the invaluable referral to the Filipino community.

My heartfelt thanks go to Aysha Abdul Majeed, Judith Thomas, and my fellow PhD students for the friendship and encouragement.

I am immensely grateful to Dr Meredith Coleman, along with my dear friends and colleagues who wish to remain anonymous, for the critical reading of the manuscript, for the insightful input and helpful suggestions.

I give my heartfelt appreciation to my family for cheering me on.

Finally, I dedicate this to my angels, Nahalina, Malaya, and Mulawin, thank you for the inspiration to pursue this PhD.

It goes without saying that I share the credit of this work with all of the aforementioned individuals, the children in this study and their families; however, I bear sole and full responsibility for any shortcomings of this project.

MGY